2020 GEMN Global Mission Conference

April 29-May 1, 2020

Christ Church Cathedral, 125 Monument Circle, Indianapolis, Indiana

“Earthkeeping: Creation Care in Global Mission”

Conference Overview

How can mission-minded Christians confront the crisis of climate change and environmental degradation alongside mission companions in other parts of the world? That is the question at the heart of the 2020 Global Mission Conference, “Earthkeeping: Creation Care in Global Mission”. Sponsored by the Global Episcopal Mission Network (GEMN), the conference will be held Wednesday-Friday, April 29-May 1, 2020 at Christ Church Cathedral in Indianapolis, Indiana.

The 2020 Global Mission Conference invites Episcopalians to explore ways to integrate creation care into our global mission work. In addition to multiple workshops on specific examples and approaches, we will be inspired by keynote speakers:

- Katharine Jefferts Schori, former Presiding Bishop and oceanographer, will provide theological grounding, scientific background and insights from her experience around the world.
- Leon Sampson of Navajoland will share how Native American perspectives correlate with Christian theology and offer ecological approaches from the First Nations.
- Rachel Mash, eco-activist and coordinator of the Green Anglicans network in Southern Africa, will discuss innovative approaches taken by the church in Africa and suggest specific ways Christians in the West can engage ecologically with companions in the Majority World.
- Orlando Gomez, the bishop of Costa Rica, and a team from that diocese will share how the climate crisis is affecting Latin America and how his diocese and others in that part of the world are actively engaged in the care of creation.

Global Mission Workshops

Mission workshops will give you practical tools to bring back to your diocese, congregation or mission organization:

- Active environmental ministries and global mission partnerships
- Theology of environmental mission
- Healthy short-term mission
- Asset-Based Community Development
- Sustaining mission relationships
- Discerning a call as a missionary
- Cross-cultural best practices in mission engagement

Notice of 2020 Global Episcopal Mission Network Annual Meeting:

The Board of Directors hereby gives notice of the annual general meeting of the Global Episcopal Mission Network which will take place on Thursday, April 30, 2020 at 11:00 a.m. at Christ Church Cathedral in Indianapolis, Indiana. All are invited to attend.

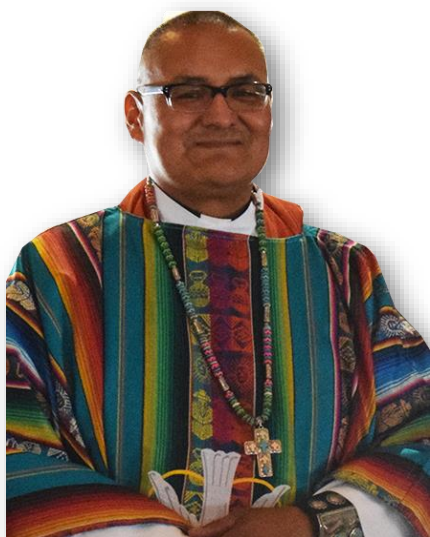

Keynote Speakers

The Rt. Rev. Katharine Jefferts Schori served as Presiding Bishop and chief pastor of the Episcopal Church's members in 17 nations from 2006 to 2015, working to strengthen mission partnerships across the Anglican Communion and with other religious and civic partners. Bishop Jefferts Schori has been vocal about mission priorities, including the United Nations Development Goals (MDGs and SDGs), domestic poverty, climate change and care for the earth, and international issues of peace and justice.

In August 2019, the bishop accompanied a group of fifteen young pilgrims from the Diocese of Olympia on a unique one-week Youth Creation Care Pilgrimage, departing from St. Mark's Cathedral in Seattle and trekking to the beach near Forks-La Push on the shores of the Pacific Ocean.

Dr. Jefferts Schori began her career as an oceanographer. Her research focused on cephalopods – including systematics, fisheries, and evolutionary theory. In the mid-1980s, she worked as an oceanographer for the National Marine Fisheries Service. She holds a B.S. degree in biology from Stanford University, an M.S. and Ph.D. in oceanography from Oregon State University and has been awarded numerous honorary doctorates. She served on President Obama's Council on Neighborhood and Faith-Based Partnerships, and on the Division of Earth and Life Studies Board of the National Academy of Sciences. Among her books are Gospel in the Global Village: Seeking God's Dream of Shalom and Gathering at God's Table: The Five Marks of Mission in the Feast of Faith.

Prior to her role as Presiding Bishop, Bishop Jefferts Schori served as Bishop of Nevada, and earlier was a university lecturer (fisheries, religious studies, and philosophy), priest, and hospice chaplain in Oregon. She speaks passionately for the role of all the baptized in serving God's mission to heal the world. She served as Assisting Bishop in the Diocese of San Diego from 2017 to 2019.

The Rev. Leon Sampson, curate priest at Good Shepherd Mission in the Navajoland Area Mission Diocese, has been instrumental in establishing the Navajoland beekeeping program: Bees Bring Hozho to Navajoland. 'Hozho' means harmony in one's relationship with nature. "As Navajo, we understand the Earth to be a living being who gave life to us as a people. We are connected intrinsically to her and feel a kinship for every living thing that inhabits this planet with us. As Episcopalians, we believe we must honor God's creation by stewarding Earth's precious resources. This project allows us to live fully in both beliefs."

The Rev. Sampson graduated in 2019 from Virginia Theological Seminary. He returned home to St. Christopher's Mission in Bluff, Utah, just in time to move to Fort Defiance, Arizona. He began by listening to the community and entered a discernment process as to what his new ministry would encompass. In July 2019, he was ordained to the priesthood. He is focusing on strengthening the community engagement ministry by increasing outreach programs with local schools and other churches, and responding as witness to the needs of the community.

The Rev. Dr. Rachel Mash is the Environmental Coordinator of the Anglican Church of Southern Africa, which includes South Africa, Swaziland-Eswatini, Lesotho, Namibia, Angola and Mozambique. She works with the Green Anglicans Youth Movement, which is growing in Africa. She is secretary to the Anglican Communion Environmental Network and sits on the steering committee of the Season of Creation group.

Southern Africa is one of the areas most affected by climate change. “We are suffering both from severe drought in parts of the region as well as devastating floods in others,” says Dr. Mash. “Cape Town, where I live, recently suffered the worst years of drought in 100 years and as Day Zero drew near, there was the threat that we would become the first major city in the world to run out of water. This year the rains have been better, and the situation has improved, but we have gone from rainy winters to drought. This is becoming the new normal.”

Dr. Mash played a critical supporting role in the Southern African Anglican Church passing a resolution to divest from fossil fuels in 2016. As a Climate Reality Leader trained by former Vice President Al Gore in 2014 in Johannesburg, Dr. Mash is making the Anglican Church of Southern Africa an example for religions across the world to follow.

The Rt. Rev. Orlando Gómez Segura, Bishop of Costa Rica in the Anglican Church of Central America since 2018, is offering leadership to the diocese’s creation care ministries. Costa Rica is well known for its environmentalism, with a full 25% of the country’s landmass consisting of protected forests and reserves. Costa Rica is ranked the second most environmentally sustainable country in the world. The country uses 99.2% renewable energy, of which 78% is from hydroelectric sources and 18% from geothermal and wind power. During one 75-day stretch, the entire country was able to run on renewable resources only.

Bishop Gómez was ordained priest 2000 and has been part of the mission of the Episcopal Church since 1991. He was priest-in-charge of All Saints Mission in San Rafael Abajo, one of the poorest districts in the south of the province of San José. There he developed a social, communal and environmental ministry in conjunction with the local government and other social organizations.

Originally from Turrialba, Cartago, Bishop Gómez grew up in the countryside as a farmer in a Roman Catholic family. He is the sixth of 10 children. In 1978, he emigrated from the countryside to the city and began his high school studies. In the city, he stood out as a carpenter specializing in cabinetmaking.

In 1991 he and his wife were invited to participate in an activity of the Episcopal Church. They immediately became active members of La Ascensión. In 1993, he was transferred to serve All Saints’ Mission, where he felt called to ordained ministry. He completed his biblical and theological studies at the Latin American Biblical University.

General Information

Conference Location:

This year's GEMN Global Mission Conference will be hosted by:

Christ Church Cathedral
125 Monument Circle
Indianapolis, Indiana 46204
Website: www.cccindy.org

Located in the heart of Indianapolis, Christ Church Cathedral describes its origins this way: "It all started in 1837, when some of Indianapolis's earliest residents founded Christ Church Cathedral as a congregation of the Episcopal Church. At the time, Monument Circle was rutted and muddy, and we surrounded our property with a fence—it was the only way to keep pigs out of the churchyard. Construction on the current building began in 1857 and, today, CCC is the home and ceremonial seat of the bishop of Indianapolis, who oversees 46 congregations in central and southern Indiana.

"But CCC is more than a cathedral. We are a refuge for the city, and we believe, as it says in The Book of Common Prayer, in the 'dignity of every human being.' Our doors are open 365 days a year—to the homeless, the lost, the steadfast, the strong. In 2013, we adopted a new mission: widening the circle of God's embrace with heart and voice. To make our vision a reality, we emphasize relationships and go where the energy is. We embrace questions and curiosity. We advocate for the LGBT and Hispanic communities, discuss the power of God over a pint, and host yoga on Monument Circle. We are the "Little Church on the Circle."

Indianapolis

Indianapolis offers visitors a wide selection of historic monuments, world-class museums, serious sports, and a variety of delicious, eclectic eateries. It brings together the energy and excitement of a large city with the friendliness of a small town. Providing a perfect blend of bustle and an easygoing Midwest mindset, Indy is a fun and charming city. The downtown area, where the conference is located, is clean, compact and very walkable.

The Cathedral is within a stone's throw of the Soldiers and Sailors Monument, marking the center of the city. Free and open to the public, you may climb the 330 steps up to the top or take the elevator to step 290. There is a Civil War Museum in the lower level.

For art and music lovers, Indianapolis presents a wide range of options. The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra is located across Monument Circle from the Cathedral. In addition to notable art museums and galleries, such as the Indianapolis Museum of Art, the city boasts a number of theater companies. Indianapolis also has neighborhoods worth exploring: the Lockerbie Square district with renovated Victorian homes on cobblestone streets; the shops, restaurants, and art galleries along Massachusetts Avenue downtown; and Broad Ripple Village, a canal-side neighborhood with boutiques, restaurants, and nightlife.

Indianapolis takes its sports seriously. The Indianapolis 500 and the Allstate 400 at the Brickyard attract hundreds of thousands of visitors to each event. The city also boasts world-class sports facilities (including the Lucas Oil Stadium, home of the Indianapolis Colts) and a variety of pro franchises - the NBA's Pacers, the WNBA's Fever, the NFL's Colts, and the Indianapolis Indians. If you can't make it to a game, not to worry, there are sports eateries on every corner!

Carbon Offset Program

Offset your carbon through this unique global mission carbon offset partnership

Offset your carbon AND participate in global mission partnership. Here's how...

In February 2012, both Bishop Greg Rickel of the Diocese of Olympia (Washington) and Bishop Danilo Bustamante of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Philippines (EDSP), viewed Creation Care as a high priority for their dioceses. The two dioceses established an innovative carbon offset partnership and signed a "Covenant for Caring of All Creation".

Within that partnership, the Diocese of Olympia has created a carbon offset fund for donors to offset their carbon emissions from travel, church and household energy usage; the Diocese of the Southern Philippines utilizes these funds for reforestation projects to combat soil erosion, poor air quality and widespread deforestation. The carbon offsets are created at $25 per ton of carbon sequestered. All are invited to participate in this unique program. Visit the link below at www.gemn.org for more information!
